Reporting Sexual Assault, Sexual Harassment and Sex-Based Harassment to External Agencies

Anonymous Reporting

(13) A complainant may choose to report sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment anonymously. Such reports provide a point-in-time reference for the complainant only.

(14) Where possible, the University will act on anonymous reports. This may include undertaking an investigation into allegations in the report or taking appropriate preventative measures. The action the University may take and who is involved in taking this action will vary depending on a range of factors, including, for example, the identity of the respondent.

(15) In determining what action to take, the University is primarily focused on prevention of harm for the complainant and other University community members. If the respondent is a staff member, Human Resource Services will generally manage any investigation of the report.

(16) However, the University may be limited in its ability to respond to a report if the report does not include the identity of the respondent and detailed information about the alleged sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment.

(17) If a complainant initially makes an anonymous report regarding sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment, they can later choose to provide their identity.

(18) Anonymous complainants will be provided with a reference number after making a report and are encouraged to record this reference number once provided as it can be used to change the report to an identified report at a later stage.

(19) An anonymous report can be changed to an identified report by contacting either Campus Care at campuscare@newcastle.edu.au or Human Resource Services at staffcare@newcastle.edu.au.

How will the University respond to a report?

Students

(20) Reports of sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment made to the University by a student will be managed by Campus Care, for reports involving other students, or they will be managed by Campus Care with the support of Human Resource Services, for reports involving staff members or other members of the University community.

(21) Each report of sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment will undergo an initial risk assessment. This assessment is to determine if:

- a. any support mechanisms or adjustments required in view of the report;
- b. there is any immediate or serious threat to any person; or
- c. if the University may be required to provide information to a law enforcement agency or regulatory authority.

(22) Campus Care and/or Human Resource Services will continue to assess the risk in consultation with the complainant while it is managing the report.

(23) Following the initial risk assessment, Campus Care and/or Human Resource Services may take one or more of the following actions in consultation with the complainant:

- a. provide support to and consult with the complainant (see clause 26);
- b. provide information to a law enforcement agency or regulatory authority;
- c. refer the matter to be considered under an alternate process as noted in clause 2;
- d. take appropriate action to minimise any immediate risk to health and safety;
- e. any other step the University considers appropriate to respond to the report.

(24) In determining what action to take at this stage, and throughout the University's response to a report, the University will be guided by the wishes of the complainant, the University's aim to prevent harm to the complainant and other University community members and its obligations under law.

(25) Where the complainant makes an identified report, Campus Care and/or Human Resource Services will generally:

- a. explain to the complainant how to access support services;
- b. allow the complainant to provide additional information;
- c. discuss with the complainant next steps in responding to their report, including but not limited to whether they want to:
  - i. proceed with referring the matter to a misconduct process; or
  - ii. report to a relevant law enforcement agency; and
- d. discuss with the complainant an outline of the report management and investigation process.

(26) If a complainant initially declines to proceed with a misconduct process, a complainant can, at a future time, request the University refer the matter for assessment of misconduct or serious misconduct.

(27) To do so the complainant should contact Campus Care at campuscare@newcastle.edu.au. While a complainant may request that a report is referred to a disciplinary process at any time, complainants should note that records are retained for particular periods in accordance with the University Records Governance Policy.

(28) The process above will vary if the report is made anonymously. While the University will generally follow the process set out above for anonymous reports, the University will not be able to consult with the complainant. Where a complaint is initially made anonymously and the complainant later identifies themselves, the University will consult with the complainant about any steps remaining in this process and consider whether any step in the process should be revisited with the complainant's input.

(29) Throughout the process, including any investigation, Campus Care and/or Human Resource Services, will aim to keep the complainant informed about key steps in the process, and where appropriate what these steps involve, including any decision to refer the matter to a misconduct process, the outcome of any misconduct process or if the University determines not to take further action. Although, in some circumstances there may be limits on the information that can be shared with the complainant, for example, to protect the confidentiality of other persons involved.

Staff and Other Members of the University Community

(30) Reports of sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment made to the University by a staff member or other member of the University community may initially be triaged by Campus Care, however will generally be directed to Human Resource Services for further assessment and management, as set out below. However, Campus Care may continue to manage the process for reports concerning students. Who manages the complaint is generally driven by capacity within each team at that time, and the wishes of the complainant.

(31) Each report of sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment will undergo an initial risk assessment. This assessment is to determine if:

- a. any support mechanisms or adjustments required in view of the report;
- b. there is any immediate or serious threat to any person; or
- c. if the University may be required to provide information to a law enforcement agency or regulatory authority.

(32) Human Resource Services and/or Campus Care will continue to assess the risk in consultation with the complainant while it is managing the report.

(33) Following the initial risk assessment, Human Resource Services and/or Campus Care may take one or more of the following actions in consultation with the complainant:

- a. provide support to and consult with the complainant;
- b. provide information to a law enforcement agency or regulatory authority;
- c. refer the matter to be considered under an alternate process as noted in clause 2;
- d. take appropriate action to minimise any immediate risk to health and safety;
- e. any other step the University considers appropriate to respond to the report.

(34) In determining what action to take at this stage, and throughout the University's response to a report, the University will be guided by the wishes of the complainant, the University's aim to prevent harm to the complainant and other University community members and its obligations under law.

(35) Where the complainant makes an identified report, Human Resource Services and/or Campus Care will generally:

- a. explain to the complainant how to access support services;
- b. allow the complainant to provide additional information;

- c. discuss with the complainant next steps in responding to their report, including but not limited to whether they want to:
  - i. proceed with referring the matter to a misconduct process; or
  - ii. report to a relevant law enforcement agency; and
- d. discuss with the complainant an outline of the report management and investigation process.

(36) If a complainant initially declines to proceed with a misconduct process, a complainant can, at a future time, request the University refer the matter for assessment of misconduct or serious misconduct. To do so the complainant should contact Human Resource Services at staffcare@newcastle.edu.au.

(37) While a complainant may request that a report is referred to a disciplinary process at any time, complainants should note that records are retained for particular periods in accordance with the University Records Governance Policy.

(38) The process above will vary if the report is made anonymously. While the University will generally follow the process set out above for anonymous complaints, the University will not be able to consult with the complainant. Where a complaint is initially made anonymously and the complainant later identifies themselves, the University will consult with the complainant about any steps remaining in this process and consider whether any step in the process should be revisited with the complainant's input.

(39) Throughout the process, including any investigation, Human Resource Services and/or Campus Care, will aim to keep the complainant informed about key steps in the process and, where appropriate what these steps will likely involve, including any decision to investigate the report, refer the report to a misconduct process, the outcome of any misconduct process or if the University determines not to take further action. Although, in some circumstances there may be limits on the information that can be shared with the complainant, for example, to protect the confidentiality of other persons involved.

Section 4 - Misconduct Process

(40) Where a decision is made by the University to proceed with a misconduct process against a respondent the report will be referred to (unless otherwise provided for in the Student Conduct Rule or the Enterprise Agreement):

(41) The University has obligations, including under work, health and safety legislation to take reasonable steps to protect the safety of staff, students and other members of the University community. Due to these obligations, there may be circumstances where the University determines it needs to take action to respond to a report that is different to the action the complainant may want or has requested. This may include, for example, referring a report for consideration under a misconduct process or taking preventative steps to minimise the risk of harm to staff or students. If this occurs, the University will aim to discuss this with the complainant prior to taking this step and will ensure that the complainant continues to have access to the available supports and information about the process.

(43) The University seeks to equip its students and staff to be active bystanders through education, training, information and support, recognising that some are personally affected by witnessing sexual assault, sexual harassment or sex-based harassment.
